Vehicle Description

When it was released in 2002, S-Type 4.2 Supercharged V8 was the fastest road production saloon car in the world, producing some 400BHP and reaching 60mph in 5.6 seconds. A serious competitor for the BMW M5, the Jaguar was a real Wolf in Sheep's clothing, its understated looks belying its blistering pace.

Production of the S-type ceased in 2008 when the Jaguar XF succeeded it. This example is therefore one of the last and finding these late super saloons is becoming increasingly hard. This particular car has covered only 78,500 miles and has an excellent service history with 8 stamps in the service booklet, 6 from Jaguar, the last being completed in January 2019. This is backed up by a comprehensive file of service invoices and old MOT certificates.

The car has clearly been looked after as the cosmetic condition proves and has been used little by its last
